
Statement on Genetically Modified Organism (GMO) Ingredients

At S H Jones, we put the safety and quality of our products at the top of our priority list. We guarantee that there are no Genetically Modified Organisms in any products that we sell.

We maintain full compliance with health and food safety regulations and those for labelling and ingredients as required by UK and EU law.

We are aware that these regulations may change in the future. We therefore actively follow and engage in public discussions around genetically modified organisms and their use as ingredients in products for human consumption and we are prepared to review and modify our policy in light of any new guidance, scientific information and developments that may occur.

This policy statement will be reviewed annually.
